

Water Resources

11. That DELWP use the current long-term water resource assessment (LTWRA) to identify metrics for monitoring the condition of, and risks to, Victoria's water resources and waterway health for reasons related to flow, and commit to long-term monitoring. Complementary thresholds would also be established for these metrics, and actions determined for circumstances when thresholds are crossed. Further, in a changing climate, it is recommended that DELWP review the 15-year period between LTWRAs, as more frequent assessments may be required to maintain ecosystem health and function.
